

National Council of Jewish Women
Sacramento Section

NCJW advances social and economic justice for women, children, and families through advocacy, education, community service, and leadership development.

The world is reopening. Opportunities to make a difference together abound. Please join or renew your membership in NCJW today*.

NCJW gives you the opportunity to:

- Turn your passion into action;
- Advocate for local and statewide issues including reproductive rights, economic and racial justice, criminal justice reform, and more;
- Directly impact and empower the most vulnerable in our community including women and children experiencing homelessness, youth in the foster system, immigrants, and human trafficking survivors;
- Learn about today's issues from experts and thought leaders;
- Build advocacy, organizational, and leadership skills;
- Connect with a community of dynamic, like-minded women.

NCJW Sacramento makes change happen. Let's do it together.

Members receive invitations to a broad range of local events and a hard copy of our newsletter, The Bulletin.

If you would like to join or renew by mail, please clip and send the form below along with a check payable to NCJW to: NCJW Sacramento, P.O.
